“ Ellie was a dear friend who will always live in my memory and heart. I was privileged to share her final journey with her in this life. She accepted each day and all the people who touched her life with grace and appreciation. Ellie loved adventures and I was often part of her inner circle. From walking dogs to visiting Europe Ellie loved every minute of those unforgettable journeys. In fact, she had more in mind for the future. Ellie loved books. They were always her constant companion allowing her to journey at home and abroad. Ellie will be dearly missed by her family and friends. May she know peace always! Dorothy Pecce

“ When I think of Ellie, I smile and remember her intelligence, her creativity and her love for the natural world. Ellie was a passionate, dedicated and inspiring teacher. The contributions she made to her students and to education will impact many future generations. Ellie loved knowledge and she was a constant learner. Her curious nature and her love for adventure was boundless. Even towards the very end of her life she continued to learn about everything. During our visits we would discuss books, authors, politics, travel, nature, art, philosophy, cooking and many other subjects. I was in awe of her courage, her perspective and her grace during such a difficult time. Ellie's love and light will continue to shine in the many lives she touched including mine. And to the family I want to express my deepest condolences. Ellie spoke of her love for all of you often. Dear Ellie may you rest in peace. Angie Hinckley

“ My memories of Ellie was to know that she kept in touch with her teacher friends that she worked with, especially Dorothy. They were so close and I know it was comforting to know that Dorothy was by her side in time of need. Ellie is now and rest and I know she is at peace with the Lord.

“ Ellie was a wonderful person-so sweet and sensitive to other people’s needs and situations. As a colleague, she was a pleasure to work with. As a teacher, her students were blessed to have her. My sympathies to her family and friends for losing someone so special.
