“ I have not seen Jim probably since high school - there he was always the kindest and most uplifting person...great sense of humor and heart of gold - I feel bad he lived such a short distance from me and yet never reconnected. To his family, I'm most sorry for your Jim was the best - God Bless you all...

“ First I want to express my sincere condolences to the Kudla family. My wife and I have known Jim and Kathy since before they got married in Orlando. I met Jim when we both were in Iran. And got to know Kathy after we got back. Jim was a man of class and always was well dressed, was highly intelligent, and we had many laughs together. We were good friends. The kind friend that you have for a lifetime. Our family went to visit when Jim and family were living in Brussels. When we were there, Jim said I got to take you somewhere. A TWO HOUR drive later, (Jim was a VERY fast driver) we went walking in some dense forest and Jim pointed to indentations in the ground and with total excitement said "do you know what you are looking at? I thought he had lost his mind. I said "I have no clue" We were in the forests of the Ardennes where the Battle of the Bulge took place. Those indentations were foxholes where our troops looked for protection from the onslaught on the German army. His love of World War II history was amazing. Jim was the guy that also got me into appreciating good wine. Many, many thousands of dollars later my wife and I still enjoy a good glass of wine. Thank you Jim, I think. He appreciated the good things of life and lived life to the fullest; traveling all around the world when he worked for AT&T International. The last five years were not good to Jim health wise. But he was blessed to have his family there every day. Especially his loving and dedicated wife, Kathy. We will miss you Jimbo. We have lost a great friend.

PS. I still don't like the New England Patriots.

“ Sincerest condolences to the Kudla family. While it wasn't mentioned in his obituary, I do believe that Mr. Kudla was my third grade teacher at St. James School in Haverhill, Mass. during the 1969-70 school year. I still have my report card signed by Mr. James Kudla, and I remember that he had a daughter (maybe a new baby) named Kristen. I wanted to write because Mr. Kudla was my favorite teacher of all time and truly shaped the course of my life. He treated us with respect and talked to us about world events, presidential elections, and topics likely not discussed in other third grade classrooms at the time. He challenged us to think, to write, and to set goals. In addition, he was the first male teacher (most of the teachers were nuns) we'd encountered in school, which made him all the more remarkable and memorable. When I saw his name and face in the obituary page, I instantly recognized him and wanted you to know that while he did not pursue a career as a teacher, he will always be remembered by me (and, I am sure by many of my classmates) as a teacher who made a tremendous, lasting, and positive difference in the lives of his students. Wishing you comfort and peace as you mourn his loss and celebrate his life.

“ My sincere condolences to the entire Kudla family. I hope that your memories of happier times, and knowing that he is no longer suffering will help you through this difficult time. While I did not know Jim well, I always enjoyed a quick chat with him when I would stop by to pick up Amelia. He will be missed, but his memory will love on in your hearts forever. Honor his memory by taking good care of each other during this sad time.
