

Nancy Reynolds Beck

July 19, 1927 - September 29, 2019

Portsmouth - Civic icon and cultural leader Nancy R. Beck, 92, passed away on Sunday, September 29, 2019. Nancy created projects that transformed Portsmouth from an industrial port into a vibrant historic and cultural destination. Her leadership and fundraising prowess led to the development of Strawbery Banke, the groundbreaking outdoor museum that has become the most popular historic attraction in the region. She was an early supporter of Theatre by The Sea, the first professional repertory theater in Northern New England, and renovated a vacant downtown warehouse on Bow Street into a popular theater venue. With her hand in dozens of civic initiatives from saving buildings across Portsmouth to the creation of the annual Prescott Park Arts Festival, Nancy leaves an indelible mark on the city she loved for over 60 years.

Rescued from the rip tide of urban renewal beginning in the early 1960's which leveled ageing neighborhoods across the country, Nancy and a group of local citizens were among the first to see value in the historic narrative of Portsmouth and move to preserve some of its most precious original buildings. Many structures in the North and South End and The Hill were saved and remain a vital part of the city's fabric.

The birth of Strawbery Banke heralded a new way to experience history - not as antiques frozen in time but as living environments linking past, present and future. Nancy became president of the Museum twice – two decades apart – and helped raise nearly $3.5 million to double the endowment and ensure its long-term success.

Nancy was an original founding member of Theatre by the Sea in 1964 and raised the money to transform a waterfront warehouse into a dynamic 350-seat performance space. Renown for introducing bold work by emerging playwrights, the theatre presented plays such as Night, Mother and K2 next to classics such as West Side Story and Evita. Known today as the Seacoast Repertory Theatre, its stage continues to enthrall audiences with a full season of plays.

A former Managing Editor of Atlantic Monthly magazine, Nancy was raised in Boston and graduated from Mount Holyoke and Harvard. She married Dr. Peter Beck of Portsmouth in 1959, moved to his Austin Street home and lost little time in engaging with the civic life of her adopted city. Her work spanned organizations such as Portsmouth Preservation Inc. and the Greater Piscataqua Community Foundation.

Nancy was a relentless supporter of causes and individuals who had interest in building a better city. She would invite travelers, actors, merchant captains and the occasional political operative to stay in their home, creating a salon for exchanging ideas and seeking mutual understanding.

What many now take for granted - that Portsmouth was always a beacon for the arts - greatly underappreciates the role of a handful of cultural pioneers who set about recasting the city's persona. In an interview with the Portsmouth Herald, Nancy summed up her mission, "You can't say everything is fine- it isn't. You have to keep moving if you live in a community and want to contribute to it".

Nancy Beck is remembered for her roles in service to the arts, historic preservation and in celebrating Portsmouth's great story. She has been honored with numerous awards including the Portsmouth Advocates' Arthur J. Gerrier Award and the Rotary Award for Excellence in the Public Sector. In her passing she leaves generous donations to Strawberry Banke, Portsmouth Historical Society, Seacoast Science Center and the UNH Shoals Marine Lab.

A celebration of Nancy's life is scheduled for Friday, November 15, 2019 from 5:00 to 7:00 pm at the Strawberry Banke Visitors Center in Portsmouth. Family & friends may also visit facebook.com/nancy.reynolds.beck. In lieu of flowers, please send donations to the Seacoast Repertory Theatre.

“ Nancy was a friend for many years. I shall miss our chats. And Portsmouth will miss her support for so many organizations. Her generous bequests will benefit several worthy organizations keeping her memory alive and inspire other folks to do likewise

“ The Seacoast and Portsmouth in particular, has lost a great civic leader, a champion of the arts and a generous philanthropist. I have lost a long and wonderful friend and she will be deeply missed by all who had the privilege to know her.

“ My deepest condolences to Nancy's family. We now must celebrate her extraordinary life and be thankful that we were able to share time with her.

Nancy gave so much to the Portsmouth cultural community. Her home was always open for meetings, committees, actors, artists and anyone who had an interesting story to tell or was in need of help in some way. She was a mentor to me personally and I shall always treasure her guidance, her sense of humor, her fairness and her intelligence. What a lovely person!

Portsmouth is blessed to have had her energy, commitment and her generosity. She literally changed lives through her dedication to improving our cultural life.

“ Thanksgiving
Continues.....

No matter where we were, we always come back to spend celebrating Thanksgiving with the Becks. This will be the first year Greg and I have the Thanksgiving without the Becks. We will set two place setting in their honor and invite a few foreigners to the dinner to carry on the tradition. They are truly a gift to our lives - for that we are forever thankful.

Match Maker

Nancy was a matchmaker for a few happy unions. Her marriage to Dr. Beck was a result of her dearest friends Charlotte and Cameron Beers. She always referred with a beam in her eyes as a "blind" date with an eye doctor. She had arranged to have her favorite cousin meet with me at their home with when he was teaching at Harvard in the summer. The mischievous side of Nancy was doing it without telling us. I was very taken with the cousin and was not sure if it could work out since it was a long distant romance. We kept it secret for a while. It did not take her long to figure out we were serious when we were at her house. She proudly proclaimed it was an arranged marriage and her "scheme" of making me a Beck. I am forever thankful she saw the goodness in my husband and wanted me in good hands. They have forever changed my life. Not only are they my hero's, mentors, they also play matchmaker, I'm married to Nancy's cousin, my wonderful husband, Gregory Beck.

I want to thank Greg for his immense support allowing me to spend three plus wonderful intimate years with Nancy in her golden years. She was as much a mom to me as I'm a daughter to her. Also, Sparky, our loveable Corgi, to allow us to share him back and forth between GA and NH. Despite his love for barking at strangers, he became Nancy's buddy and fearless protector.

Family Affairs

They opened their home and themselves to allow me to be a part of their family. I've so privileged to include to their family homestead and countless trips in their farm in Vermont, Portsmouth and Switzerland and introduced me to their friends and relatives. I also took him to visit my hometown and relatives in Asia. I was so proud showing him off as he was always the life of a party for his commanding intelligence and curiosity of people and things.

When I spent over a decade working in Peterborough, I will spend every weekend with the Becks except when I was travelling for work. My colleagues will fondly have greeted me at the end of the work week, "You are going to home. Have a good weekend". Yes - I'm going home. Home is where the Becks are. They are forever having a room in my heart. Dr. Beck will love it- it's rent free!

I have gained a band of family whether it is generic and those they adopted along the way, Jana, Mary, Shauna are my sisters bonded by the Becks.

Life without the Becks will be challenging. I had continued sending love letters to Dr. Beck after his passed away and will I continue to send both of them. I live well by their samples as they wanted me to. I take the best of them with me and will be a better human being because of them. They are reunited with their family in heaven and they were such a shaker and mover as they were in this earth. I hope this time Dr. Beck will chase after Nancy instead. I will see them again in heaven

Life of Service

Nancy devoted herself to her beloved Portsmouth since she moved here in 1959. She served on the board and presidents of many institutions and received numerous awards for her service. Her commitments to historic preservation, theatre, museum and humanitarian causes with her dynamic leadership and volunteerism greatly contributed to what make Portsmouth a vibrant historical importance and culture city today.

“ Nancy was one of my Mom's best friends. They met for coffee and a muffin every Friday and shared stories and chatted. I suspect many of us feel Nancy was one of our best friends too because Nancy was always generous, warm, and greeted everyone with a beautiful smile and a chuckle. She was genuinely interested in me and my brothers and sister since I can remember, asking what we were doing and where were we going next. She was particularly kind to me when her support for my next step renewed my confidence in myself and set me on a path to success at Mount Holyoke.

Nancy also loved travel and adventure. Once when we were together with Peter somewhere near Alice Springs, Australia, we were asked if we wanted to ride a camel. I looked over to Nancy as she replied, "Of course we want to ride the camel", which we did with many laughs along the up and down journey.

Nancy was fun, so bright, always a lady, always gracious, humble and good. She was an elegant woman of many talents whose company and companionship will be greatly missed. But we know she is always nearby, staying interested in our lives until we all meet again.

Love you with all my heart, Nancy. Big hugs and God bless,

“ This is the beginning of writing Nancy a love letter, part of my healing process when one swims in this world of profound sadness and loss of Nancy in my life. Our conversation will not stop here...

Anchor

Nancy is one of the two most important women that have shaped my life path.

How lucky can one can be to have two incredible role models to provide boundaryless love and nurturing. My sister reminded that I was with Nancy more of my life than with my own mother. The lines blurred with these women towering me with deep love and devotion. Nancy was a career woman who broke glass ceilings and was the Managing Editor at Atlantic Monthly magazine. She was always a champion for women's advancement. She would always fill me with encouragement and cheerlead to be a strong women's executive.

She always sent my husband and I newspaper clippings on things of our interest and related our career and wellbeing over the years.

As a young Political Science undergraduate student at Mount Holyoke College, Nancy met Eleanor Roosevelt when she visited the campus. It inspired her for her civic duties, interest in politics and to be a force for good. She received a Master's Degree in Teaching from Harvard University. She taught only a year at a boarding school in PA after her graduation. Homesick, she returned to New England and began a career in book and magazine editing. Although no longer in the classroom, she became a lifelong mentor and great teacher to many.

When Nancy was in the hospital with the fine line that she could go either way. I felt like a sail flapping in the wind, untethered and directionless. I kept mumbling to myself, what am I'm going to do without you?

When she passed, she looked so peaceful and beautiful. Her eyelid was slightly opened, and I know she was talking to me: "I'm safe and happy to be with my parents and siblings."

Nancy was forever cheerful and celebrating life by dedicating herself by showing us human decency, family, community and culture.

She is saying to me - You go on to live her life, be good and I will always be your anchor."

Love at first sight

I was recruited by Timberland in 1995 and looking for a place to settle in Portsmouth. In October of that year, Dr. Beck volunteered to help a friend without a telephone to show her rental house. It was one of those fateful meetings, the chance of a lifetime. I decided it was not the house for me. But Dr. Beck was so charming, able to draw out my life story and giving good advice. He asked if I wanted to meet his wife and their dog. I gladly said yes. When the door opened, I saw his extraordinary elegant wife Nancy and Nina, their regal Standard Poodle. It became a lifelong relationship

Throughout the years I had watched and learned from Nancy. Everywhere we went with, she received respect, love and admirations from the others. She kept friendship for lifetime. There are always flows of cards, calls and visits from friends. Everyone loves Nancy.

How can one possess so many superb qualities - not only a stunning beauty outside but also equally amazing inside. She was kind, intelligent, quick witted, generous, can do attitude and lived life with great optimism.

She is loved and my love for her will never end.

Thanksgiving

This holiday has a special meaning to me with the Becks. I came to the seacoast 24 years ago when I was recruited by Timberland. It was close to Thanksgiving. They instantly invited me to Thanksgiving dinner. It has been a family tradition ever since. They extended their welcoming hands and told me it is good luck to have a stranger at the table for the holidays. Dr. Beck will go to UNH or as far as Dartmouth to pick up foreign students to stay over for Thanksgiving. The tradition carried on and celebrated two dozen of Thanksgivings together wherever Greg and I were- in MN, GA, AZ or Austria.
