“ Every now and then I reread the things that are written here. It's hard to believe that it has been almost two years since my baby girl left this world. I miss her more than I can put into words. Her little boy brings joy to my heart 💜

I know you don't know me but I was friends with your daughter on the internet. I decided to look her up since it had been some time since we had spoken and am so saddened by this. I cannot imagine what you went through but it does bring me some relief knowing that you have a little piece of her in William... Your daughter touched a lot of people's lives.
