“ My sister Carol was always there for me. Wether things were not going well or things were great she always had wisdom to share. When we were together there was always a smile on her face. When we rode in the car she always would hum the song that was playing. Her heart was always at peace. When we were young Carol never told our mother when I went and played by the river. We always understood each other and accepted the dicision we each made. Each year my sister would come down to Florida for the month of February. So the room she stayed in became "Carol's room". As other friends came we said you will stay in "Carol's room". It is stilled called "Carol's room". This year February will seem empty just like her room is. Carol's common sense, wisdom and love will be missed. Nothing will replace her in my heart!

Your loving brother, Chuck
