“ Charlie, Charlie, Charlie—You’ve gone way too soon, brother!

To appreciate Charlie, you must think of —OMG, what a guy. He sailed through his later life as if on a “ Cloud of fun”. He did, of course, live on an island of his own— Island Path. On this island, all knew Charlie as “one of them—and one of the family”. He would help anyone that needed help and never thought of getting paid—he volunteered to anyone that needed help, and looked for nothing in return.

Once the back-of-winter was broken, he could be seen walking this island for exercise—always bouncing a yellow tennis ball to manage his dexterity as he vigorously walked.

Once spring came along, Charlie was found watching the ocean current from his back yard for Stripper’s to arrive. Once the strippers came, Charlie was “out of touch with humanity”. No phone calls would be answered—you had to show up in Charlies space in order to see him—but his attention was on fishing —Period!

Whenever you drove down his driveway, you felt as if the red-carpet was rolled out for you—every time! He would invite you to his fishing spot, his open fire pit, or his living room to make you feel as you were wanted and welcome. “What can I get you, he would say, anything that I have is yours! He was know for his happy spirit, his honesty and his unwavering friendship.

He was a staple of work ethic at work too, Public Works, Hampton, New Hampshire. For some reason Charlie was like a father figure to his fellow employees, most who looked up to him. Although he was not, his heart reached out to other fellow workers as a “Shop Stewart” to guide them out of their perceived problems. Charlie was very unselfish.

So, good bye to a dear friend and neighbor. I am a better person from what I learned form you.

“ *Gerri,
Charlie was a dear kind person who I shared many great times with. So many funtimes of fishing, trips to Nantucket, his "immense bonfires" cooking, and just relaxing at his cottage. Charlie had a heart of gold and could never do enough for all his neighbors and friends. His sense of humor was clearly one of his greatest attributes. There are some who bring a light so great to the world that even after they are gone the light remains. You will be missed so very much. RIP*

“ I remember Charlie as a fun-loving guy with a wicked send of humor. He'd get that glint in his eye, and you'd know he was about to say something hilarious. He will be missed. Condolences to all who knew him.

“ I have a vivid memory of Charlie driving Gerri, Jan and me to CCD after school. He played the radio, and pumped the brakes of the station wagon in time to the music. He was one of a kind!

I met Charlie in the late 80's when I lived on the Cape when my girlfriend took me over there one Sunday afternoon. I was going through a divorce and very much at a low point. Charlie made me feel so welcome and introduced me to his circle of friends. It was their friendship that got me through that tough time. I will always be grateful and have many fond memories of the good times we had with Charlie. May God Bless.
