“ Auntie Shay i will always remember how much you liked my Perfumes & my Banana Bread 😊 When I was younger I was always your girl & you used to take me places with you, as I got older we used to shop together. One of the things I will never forget is how you was always one to call me by my first & middle name Sherry Lynn & after you got with Phil he also called me Sherry Lynn, you two were the only ones that referred to me that way and it was very endearing.....I will always love you & remember you with a smile.

Your Girl,
Sherry Lynn

“ My beautiful sister Shay, I am so sorry but I just can't do it, I can't go and say my see you later with everyone. I want my last memory to be you saying Love You to me just before I left. I want that memory, and none other. My very first wake was Patsy's when I was 13 years old, and to this day I can still see her in that red and white dress looking like she was sleeping. I don't want a memory of you like that stuck in my memory, I want you and I laughing when I took home the Mac and cheese, and you thought you pulled a quick one on everyone, you looking at me from across your living room with this little smile on your face, and when I asked you what are you smiling for, and you said to me " You look just like you did when you were little " Last time I saw Tami was in my driveway in a big U-haul getting ready to move back to Missouri, she gave me a big hug, told me I love you Liz and I treasure that memory. Kelly's was out in my yard in January 2015 when she stop and got her Christmas presents, waving I love you Ma. It has been a week and a day, and everyday that passed I was getting more and more nervous about having to walk up and see you. If Lilly, Sherry or Robin go before me I won't be able to go to theirs either because Lilly is my little mother, and Robin and Sherry are like sisters to me. I just can't. But I love you more then you could ever possibly know, and I am so blessed to have you for my big sister. I am not having anything when the Good Lord calls me home because I want everyone to just remember all the crazy things, I've said and done, not even my children. I will be there in heart, and I will be praying for peace for the entire family, and all your wonderful friends.... Just the other little flea, Love You

“ Shay when I was born you were ten years old so I'm sure you did that whole little mother thing with me. As we got older our relationship grew, and we knew we could always count on each another. I babysat Little Ko from time to time, and when Randy came along I babysat him while you worked. Just before Christmas I would go to your house and wrap your Christmas gifts because you really didn't like the wrapping gifts part of Christmas, and I loved it. You never missed my Christmas Eve parties, and when Shaylia was born she was your little Indian Princess, all of my girls knew how much their Auntie Shay loved them, and I was so proud of Kimberly, and Shaylia when they found out you had taken a turn for the worse they went straight up to the hospital to be with you, and they stayed along with other family members until the Good Lord took you home. That is because they loved you so very much. We worked together at Gould Shawmut, and you'd pick me up every morning and we would ride into work together. It was you that drove me up to the Elliot Hospital when I was eight months pregnant with Michelle, and I was so sick with the flu. We never went on trips together so I don't have those precious memories to share with you, but I do hold all of our good times, and bad close to my heart. When Kelly passed you and Lilly were here just as fast as the Lord would let you drive, and it was you that had to go with Shaylia to tell Kelly's fourteen year old daughter Katelyn that her mother had passed. You truly were an Earth Angel to me, Tami, and Johnny, and I had no idea until you told me a couple of months ago, and I am so grateful that you shared that with me because I never knew it was you. Each one of your siblings have their own special memories, and relationships with you, but I wouldn't change the love and respect we had for one another for anything. I love you with all of my heart, and I thank God above for allowing me to have such wonderful brothers and sisters. I am blessed beyond measure and I know it.
