“ *I JUST saw you a week ago today.. You told me about how good you've been doing, how you did it, and what you've been able to regain in your life because of it. I listened to your stories about how you met Jessica, how proud you are; of the woman she has become.. shared a few great moments of the memories y'all made and of the beautiful girls that y'all created!! Told me about Jennie & how proud you are of her as well. Then we talked about Jasmine❤️ And I'll forever replay you saying "I hate to cut you off but... What do you know about this F'n kid so & so??" (Referring to who I'd assume is her new boyfriend?!) But I didn't know anything about him & it was starting to feel real stalkerish lol. It was raining.. After talking for a while I gave you a hug and said drive safe😞 Not knowing this would be the last time I'd ever speak to him. He was a regular at Dunkin Donuts & I can't think of one person who'd have anything bad to say about the type of person Chris was. Almost always had a huge smile on his face & made sure that in his presence you did too. He loved his girls (who I just mentioned) more than anything in this world. And my heart is breaking for all of them plus his mother Anna❤️ sending my deepest most heartfelt prayers to his girls. This is such a tragedy.. there really are no words*

“ I didn't know you Chris, but my daughters do, and they have nothing but good things to say about you. I am so sorry that things happened the way they did, and I pray for your daughters, and family members to find peace through their faith in Jesus Christ. Everyone says you had a big heart... My heartfelt prayers for all of your family left behind, that you will embrace the Lord, and know that everyone I have spoken to say Chris was a great guy, and will be missed
