“ The first time I met Dave it was at Pal's pub and not knowing who I was he struck a convo and showed me a card trick because he was just that type of guy. Couple years later I was pretty much his neighbor and also gave me the nickname "black magic" and that name stuck every time we seen each other. Dave was one of those guys that told you how it is and he threw a mean "double ringer" and I respected that. R.I.P big guy. -black magic

Had known Dave since he was a teen and buddy to my sons. Always enjoyed his company. So sorry Judy. Will never those beautiful blue eyes.

Barbara Martin - January 12, 2017 at 05:15 PM

HA

Known Dave sense the 5th grade, was one of my best friends growing and as an adult. Had some great memories with,him and was one tough guy with a big heart. Kind of lost touch as we got older and settle down, but when ever I saw him he was still the same ole Dave. Sad to see a good man go so young.
