“ When I met Dennis, in the Autumn of 2011, he was wearing that damned NY Yankees cap! Extended family and I were working to take down a dead tree at my house, Lilac Hedges, in North Hampton, NH. I had inherited the house from my Aunt Janet Taylor, in 2010. The Taylor family had owned the house since 1922.

Dennis pulled off the road and introduced himself after getting out of the car. Dennis mentioned that he'd seen the "FOR SALE" sign and asked if we minded if he walked around.

I identified myself as the owner, and I commented on the cap, mentioning that we were all devoted Red Sox fans.

I offered Dennis a visit inside the house after explaining that the house was an absolute mess as we'd been working in the attic and on the house all day, after the family had lived there nearly ninety years.

Dennis asked if he could get Maryka and bring her to view the inside of the house as well. Shortly, Dennis was back with Maryka, and I met her as well.

Dennis and Maryka spent three hours with me going through the house. Later viewing a photo album, especially a phot of my aunt and uncle with their two tuxedo cats and Collies, Dennis turned to Maryka and said, We already have two cats; but we may have to get a couple of Collies."

Dennis and Maryka became close friends as well as the buyers of my house. They're part of what I consider my extended family.

I am heartbroken that Dennis has passed. Actually, I am speechless which is something that I rarely am. I'm lighting a candle for DENNIS, and a second candle and Prayers fo Maryka and their family, for comfort; and a third candle for Maryka for strength and guidance as she deals with her grief.
