“ Harry,
When the wind drifts calmly in from the northwest on a spring or summer afternoon, there will always be heard a faint, yet familiar rich and melancholic sound of the pipes being played. First, from your hands, and forevermore from omnipotence above, for there is where you belong.
Thank you for having an influence in my life.

“ To all of my Martin Family and the many friends and family who had the honor of knowing Uncle Harry. He was a wonderful role model and always willing to share his love and kindness by lending a helping hand. I'm fortunate to have spent many years at their home and traveling near and far with our families. I always continue to share the stories and memories that made family times so precious. His suspenders and cowboy boots to our love for ice cream, fairs, clambox and holidays together will never be forgotten. May he Rest In Peace and everyone find comfort in the special memories created with him, Aunt Marylou and all their children, grandchildren great grandchildren. Love you all so much 💜

“ Our prayers are with you and your family Marylou. Memories are so nice to have and one of my favorite memories of Harry was his many colorful suspenders... Sitting across from Harry at the many places we met for breakfast was always a great time. RIP Harry, we'll think of you often..
