“ I met Mr Vogt when I was a kid, as a friend of his son John. We were at Winnacunnet high school together. Back then, I never knew or could have even appreciated John Vogt Sr's military service record. As I read it now, I'm blown away at the medals he earned and can't imagine his life experience in the military. Well, his son John Vogt (jr) was a good friend of mine whom I think about occasionally when certain things I hear or see remind me of him. He was a really unique and cool individual, multi talented riding anything, bmx, dirtbikes, and ripped playing guitar. Anyway, I lost contact with John Vogt Jr and wanted to leave message and my phone contact if he's available to call or text sometime. All the best to John and his family. Love and respect. “ Here it is, forty-four years later after discharging from the Marines in 1980, that for some reason, Jack's memory still remains with me today. I was one of Jack's troopies while stationed at Camp Lejeune. Jack was one of the finest gentlemen i have ever met in my life and over the years, thought about him on many occasions. Along with Ron Cherubini and Joe Corbin, our office dynamic was so much fun and interesting - i have high admiration for the three of them - i often viewed Jack as a true father figure. Awesome man!
