

Louis Thomas Leverone

February 26, 1948 - May 17, 2024

Epping - Louis (Lou) Thomas Leverone, 76, of Epping, New Hampshire, passed away on May 17, 2024. He was born on February 26, 1948, in Boston, MA, to loving parents Jean and Louis, who preceded him in death. Lou retired to New Hampshire after spending much of his life in Old Lyme, Simsbury, and New London, Connecticut.

Lou was known for his intelligence, integrity, and cheerful disposition. As a child, he spent many summers on the family farm in Prince Edward Island, Canada. Lou served in the Navy on Guam from 1969 to 1971 and later, after graduating with a B.S. in Industrial Engineering from the University of Massachusetts at Lowell, enjoyed a successful career as an Account Manager at Computervision and Sun Microsystems.

His passion for sailing led him to the Thames Yacht Club in New London, CT, where he was a member for several decades. He enjoyed racing in the Wednesday night series, crewing for friends during Off Soundings, or simply cruising the coast of New England. Lou obtained his Merchant Marine License so he could drive the yacht club launch where he always greeted fellow sailors with a warm smile.

Lou is survived by his wife, Helene Morris; his daughter, Kristin Leverone; stepson, Jon Morris; his wife, Haleigh; and granddaughter, Mackenzie; as well as stepson, Andrew Morris; and his wife, Kayla.

A special thanks to the Benchmark at Rye, doctors, nurses, and aides who loved and cared for Lou like family. We are forever grateful for your compassion and support.

“ My most sincere condolences to Helene on the passing of Lou, my next door neighbor and childhood friend on Fayette Street in Cambridge. Lou was one year younger than me but we played together for several years in the late fifties. When we were about 10, we walked to the Charles River one summer day just the two of us. Exploring at the edge of the water, Lou climbed on the top of a culvert and slipped off into the water. I ran to him and he was totally under water and he was being pulled into the culvert. I reached down grabbed him by the hair and pulled him out. We walked home soaking wet and worried that his mom Jean would be angry. Instead she was beside herself with joy that Lou was safe. They moved away (to Somerville ?) and I met up with him and sat in on a session with the rock band he played drums for in the late sixties. I have fond memories of him and the times we had. Rest in peace my friend.
