“ When Noel was a little kid, he used to go to P.M.A kindergarten. My father and I would pick him up and bring him home until his mother, Linda, got out of work. One day, shortly after Christmas, my father got out and talked to the nuns for a minute while Noel got in the car. I overheard the nun tell my father that Noel told her he said his favourite Christmas present was the bible! I turned to look at him and said, The bible? Really? He had that grin of his on his face and shrugged and said, Hey, points!

My other favourite story about him again started at PMA. My father used to ask him what kind of soup he had for lunch and every once in a while, Noel would say 'Acorn soup". We couldn't figure out what he was talking about. My father even asked the nuns what "acorn soup" was; they were clueless! Shortly after, Bryce, Linda, and Noel were at our house for Easter and we all went into the back yard. I was with Noel while the "adults" talked and Noel looked and pointed at some rabbit turds and said, "Look, acorns!" My first thought was OMG! "Acorn soup"! He was about 5 years old and wasn't allowed to say sh*t, so he would say acorn instead! My father lived in fear the nuns would ask him if he ever found out what "acorn soup" was! Noel, you were my first nephew and therefore, my favourite. You did a lot for me in the past and I appreciated it. I will forever miss you.

“ Noel, others, and myself took in Super Bowl 39's Duck Boat Parade, which turned into a 12-hour pub crawl. The whole 12-hours-whether we were in a dive bar or fireside at The Four Seasons- Noel had a smile on his face, a witty remark, and his hands in the pockets of his familiar overcoat.

That was Noel- faithful and consistent!
