“ The first and only time I met Sarah was over a year ago at a Dane circle we both attended one night, she was with a small group of her friends. She was all smiles and introduced herself and talked with me on and off through the night. I'll never forget the sweet compliment she gave me for I don't think it was one I had ever gotten. She complimented me on how 'beautiful' she thought my energy was, I never told her and perhaps that was because of my own issues but if I could tell her now I'd tell her how much that meant to me back then and how much it means to me now. I know she had a tough past and we had touched upon that on social media and that one night we all danced together. I remember feeling nervous when I saw she got into a relationship cause I was afraid she would somehow find hurt again in her life but I couldn't have been more wrong, it lifted her soul being in love and I'm glad that she was at least happy with her life before it suddenly ended. I'm glad she was living it with a smile instead of a frown and I know she will be missed by many.

“ Sarah was a sweet girl when I had her in my orchestra in middle school. She was eager to learn and always had a little story or comment to share. I'm certain the world is a little darker without her light shining. Rest In Peace Sarah.
